

These data demonstrate a clear relationship between the number of children in the household and the number of children in the household who are under 18 years of age. The data also show that the number of children in the household who are under 18 years of age is a significant determinant of the number of children in the household who are under 18 years of age. This relationship is consistent across all states and is not significantly affected by the number of children in the household who are 18 years of age or older.

and a comprehensive understanding of the factors that influence the effectiveness of the intervention. The authors also discuss the importance of ongoing evaluation and monitoring of the intervention's impact on the community, and the need for a multi-sectoral approach to address the complex nature of the problem.
