to predict for example the behavior of a function or the number of solutions to an equation Mastering algebraic structure enables students to read algebraic expressions and equations in real life contexts not just manipulate them and to choose which form or which operation will best suit the context It facilitates being able to translate back and forth between symbolic graphical numerical and verbal representations By balancing practice in manipulation and opportunities to see the big picture Algebra Form and Function offers a way for teachers to help students achieve real mastery of algebra

A Course in Computational Algebraic Number Theory Henri Cohen, 2013-04-17 With the advent of powerful computing tools and numerous advances in mathematics computer science and cryptography algorithmic number theory has become an important subject in its own right Both external and internal pressures gave a powerful impetus to the development of more powerful algorithms These in turn led to a large number of spectacular breakthroughs To mention but a few the LLL algorithm which has a wide range of applications including real world applications to integer programming primality testing and factoring algorithms sub exponential class group and regulator algorithms etc Several books exist which treat parts of this subject It is essentially impossible for an author to keep up with the rapid pace of progress in all areas of this subject Each book emphasizes a different area corresponding to the author's tastes and interests The most famous but unfortunately the oldest is Knuth's Art of Computer Programming especially Chapter 4 The present book has two goals First to give a reasonably comprehensive introductory course in computational number theory In particular although we study some subjects in great detail others are only mentioned but with suitable pointers to the literature Hence we hope that this book can serve as a first course on the subject A natural sequel would be to study more specialized subjects in the existing literature
