

Short Answer Questions

Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to gain or enhance effective business performance. But is being aware and reacting to an environment controlling change?

- a. It is because organizations are important environmental agencies in other, not itself, and not what they do. The business world is increasingly integrated in a complex network of strategic decisions for meeting local conditions and interests and "they neither create nor control" business systems.
- b. It is because not being responsive to a business situation shows an inability to respond and adapt to change. While this is generally true, it does not mean that being and reacting is controlling.
- c. The business environment is based on relationships with suppliers, clients, and other actors. The fact that organizations are controlling and controlling is a natural response.
