Employability is attracting growing attention from researchers and practitioners alike given the contemporary employment landscape one characterized by technological changes ageing populations and competitive organizational environments This interest is in part motivated by the realisation that employability implies a win win situation as employable workers have stocks of knowledge skills and abilities and they are flexible and open to change However the role of the employer and specifically their investments in Human Resource Management policies and practices are largely absent in the current employability discourse Employability is usually regarded as an individual asset in which employees carry almost all responsibility for employability maintenance and development Remarkably little has been done to remedy the neglect of the employer perspective and advance knowledge and practice This book brings together contributions from an international team of renowned management scholars who explore how Human Resource Management investments affect workers employability Drawing on empirical evidence from all over the world this book informs researchers practitioners and students in the fields of business and management especially those with a particular interest in HRM and organizational behaviour The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of The International Journal of Human Resource Management

Post-Colonial Trajectories in the Caribbean Rosemarijn Hoefte, Matthew L. Bishop, Peter Clegg, 2016-11-18 This book compares and contrasts the contemporary development experience of neighbouring geographically similar countries with an analogous history of exploitation but by three different European colonisers Studying the so called Three Guianas Guyana Suriname and French Guiana offers a unique opportunity to look for similarities and differences in their contemporary patterns of development particularly as they grapple with new and complex shifts in the regional hemispheric and global context Shaped decisively by their respective historical experiences Guyana in tandem with the laissez faire approach of Britain toward its Caribbean colonies was decolonised relatively early in 1966 and has maintained a significant degree of distance from London The hold of The Hague over Suriname however endured well after independence in 1975 French Guiana by contrast was decolonised much sooner than both of its neighbours in 1946 but this was through full integration thus cementing its place within the political economy and administrative structures of France itself Traditionally isolated from the Caribbean the wider Latin American continent and from each other today a range of similar issues such as
