Partners in Science Robert E. Kohler, 1991 Robert Kohler shows exactly how entrepreneurial academic scientists became intimate partners in science with the officers of the large foundations created by John D Rockefeller and Andrew Carnegie and in so doing tells a fascinating story of how the modern system of grant getting and grant giving evolved and how this funding process has changed the way laboratory scientists make their careers and do their work This book is a rich historical tapestry of people institutions and scientific ideas It will stand for a long time as a source of precise and detailed information about an important aspect of the scientific enterprise It also contains many valuable lessons for the coming years John Ziman Times Higher Education Supplement Veterans' Claims for Disabilities from Nuclear Weapons Testing United States. Schneider, 2002-11-21 The eight case studies in this edited volume show in detail how the Rockefeller Foundation's gifts affected medical research education and public health in Europe the Soviet Union and China between World War I and the Cold War Despite the Foundation's goal to help countries with established medical research programs major advances were achieved in several countries that did not have a notable history in medical research In other circumstances however the Rockefeller Foundation was confronted with local cultural and political imperatives that reshaped or weakened its objectives Rockefeller Philanthropy and Modern Biomedicine offers important lessons regarding the situations in which international philanthropy is likely to be most effective J. Robert Oppenheimer and the American Century David C. Cassidy, 2005 The unexplored secret of the American Century the last 100 years of US history is the rise of American science specifically physics At the heart of that story is J Robert Oppenheimer leader of the Manhattan Project that built the atomic bomb He was a man of contradictions a scientist who discovered black holes and then turned his back on cutting edge research a gentle liberal humanist responsible for the creation of the first real weapon of mass destruction a genius who founded scientific militarism and then let it destroy him His life story embodies the great conflicts of American society its genius its weaknesses and even its essential morality How did an aesthete man uninterested in the acquisition of power become the leader of American science the most powerful research community in the world And how did he with all his intellectual and social advantages lose his power and become regarded by many as an unfulfilled if not failed scientist
