up the wall or drive them to suicide The storage sorting and analysis of massive amounts of information have enabled the automation of decision making at an unprecedented level Meanwhile computers have offered a model of cognition that increasingly shapes our approach to the world The proliferation of roboprocesses is the result as editors Catherine Besteman and Hugh Gusterson observe in this rich and wide ranging volume which features contributions from a distinguished cast of scholars in anthropology communications international studies and political science Though automatic processes are designed to be engines of rational systems the stories in Life by Algorithms reveal how they can in fact produce absurd inflexible or even dangerous outcomes Joining the call for algorithmic transparency the contributors bring exceptional sensitivity to everyday sociality into their critique to better understand how the perils of modern technology affect finance medicine education housing the workplace food production public space and emotions not as separate problems but as linked manifestations of a deeper defect in the fundamental ordering of our society The Machine Stops E M Forster's 1909 science fiction story tells the tale of a human society collapsing when the technology upon which it has become dependent fails Think of this volume as The Machine Starts a collection of unsettling ethnographic accounts of the rise of algorithmic governance A necessary and sobering call to arms Stefan Helmreich Massachusetts Institute of Technology Contributors include Catherine Besteman Alex Blanchette Robert W Gehl Hugh Gusterson Catherine Lutz Ann Lutz Fernandez Joseph Masco Sally Engle Merry Keesha M Middlemass Noelle Stout Susan J Terrio Resources in Education, 1998

Desire, Faith, and the Darkness of God Eric Bugyis, David Newheiser, 2015-11-15 In the face of religious and cultural diversity some doubt whether Christian faith remains possible today Critics claim that religion is irrational and violent and the loudest defenders of Christianity are equally strident In response Desire Faith and the Darkness of God Essays in Honor of Denys Turner explores the uncertainty essential to Christian commitment it suggests that faith is moved by a desire for that which cannot be known This approach is inspired by the tradition of Christian apophatic theology which argues that language cannot capture divine transcendence From this perspective contemporary debates over God's existence represent a dead end if God is not simply another object in the world then faith begins not in abstract certainty but in a love that exceeds the limits of knowledge The essays engage classic Christian thought alongside literary and philosophical sources ranging from Pseudo Dionysius and Dante to Karl Marx and Jacques Derrida Building on the work of Denys Turner they indicate that the boundary between atheism and Christian thought is productively blurry Instead of settling the stale dispute over whether religion is rationally justified their work suggests instead that Christian life is an ethical and political practice impassioned by a God who transcends understanding
