Manno,J. Ring,2012-12-06 Infrared Astronomy is a relatively new subject but it has already radically altered our ideas about astronomical sources Recent progress in this subject is the result of improved detection techniques particularly the use of detectors at liquid helium temperatures Unfortunately the terrestrial atmosphere greatly restricts Infrared astronomers by allowing them to detect radiation only in narrow transmission windows and by presenting a foreground emission which limits the faintness of observable sources It is only from aircraft or balloon altitudes that we can begin to observe faint sources over the complete range of wavelengths between the visible and the radio regions Few such observations have yet been made and none from satellites although the latter vehicle will offer complete freedom from atmospheric effects New developments and intermediate steps will be required before the ultimate aim of flying in space can be achieved It is not surprising therefore that the Fifth Esab Esrin Symposium should deal with this problem This book contains the proceedings of the Symposium and faithfully records all discussions The Symposium covered the present situation and future perspectives of IR techniques International leaders in the field reviewed the results to date and the possible developments in telescope systems detectors cryogenics filters and interferometers Individual contributions were made by European and U S scientists in each of these fields Road and Track ,1970 Catalog of Sears, Roebuck and Company Sears, Roebuck and Company,1965 Aeronautics ,1959-03 The Lincoln Continental OCee Ritch,1963 Car Life ,1970 Proceedings Institution of Mechanical Engineers (Great Britain),1960 Automobile Engineer ,1961 The Autocar ,1968-09 Sports Car Graphic ,1968
