Hassaniya Arabic (Mali) Jeffrey Heath, 2003 In most countries of the Maghreb the local Arabic vernaculars are increasingly inundated by vocabulary grammatical forms and even syntax from literary Arabic used in mosques schools and media and oral poetry is receding except for popular song genres The Arabs of the Timbuktu Gao region by contrast are a peripheral linguistic minority with little exposure to literary Arabic They continue to speak a relatively pure beduin Arabic closely related to varieties spoken in Mauritania and southern Algeria These texts recorded in 1986 1989 and presented here in transcription along with facing English translations document this language as well as the remarkable verbal culture of these people The ethnographic texts cover such topics as the annual salt caravans from Timbuktu to Taoudenni the perils of the pastoral life and adjustments to city life The poetic texts include recitations of locally familiar poems typically integrated into narratives or otherwise contextualized The poems consisting of quatrains gaf and more extended poems tal a are often satirical or even bawdy in nature Jeffrey Heath is Professor of Linguistics and Near Eastern Studies at the University of Michigan He is the author of many fieldworkbased works including grammars dictionaries and text collections on languages of Australia and on Songhay languages of West Africa

Arab Voices in Diaspora Layla Al Maleh, Layla Maleh, 2009 Arab Voices in Diaspora offers a wide ranging overview and an insightful study of the field of anglophone Arab literature produced across the world The first of its kind it chronicles the development of this literature from its inception at the turn of the past century until the post 9 11 era The book sheds light not only on the historical but also on the cultural and aesthetic value of this literary production which has so far received little scholarly attention It also seeks to place anglophone Arab literary works within the larger nomenclature of postcolonial emerging and ethnic literature as it finds that the authors are haunted by the same hybrid exilic and diasporic questions that have dogged their fellow postcolonialists Issues of belonging loyalty and affinity are recognized and dealt with in the various essays as are the various concerns involved in cultural and relational identification The contributors to this volume come from different
