West Meets East Leslie Grant,James Stronge,Xianxuan Xu,Patricia Popp,Yaling Sun,2014-04-03 The United States and China two nations drastically different in demographics history political structures and education systems Despite these differences educators in each country have discovered they have much to learn from one another The United States looks east and is captivated by the high assessment scores that many Chinese students achieve China looks west and is enamored with how the United States fosters innovation and creativity in students Teachers are increasingly looking across borders to expand adapt and offer their students a more balanced education West Meets East is based on the fundamental premise that strong teaching is at the heart of educational quality and that we all benefit from understanding the practices and professional thinking of exemplary teachers With this in mind Grant and her colleagues set out to discover which beliefs and strategies of effective teachers can cross the cultural divide and help students in each nation make breakthrough advances As educators it s important to understand that even though we re setting new goals and improving outcomes excellence is a moving target In the globally connected 21st century educational innovations in one country can reset the bar for students around the world Only by learning from one another can we be sure all our students remain competitive and successful

Transitional Justice and the Politics of Inscription Joseph Robinson,2017-08-04 Taking Northern Ireland as its primary case study this book applies the burgeoning literature in memory studies to the primary question of transitional justice how shall societies and individuals reckon with a traumatic past Joseph Robinson argues that without understanding how memory shapes moulds and frames narratives of the past in the minds of communities and individuals theorists and practitioners may not be able to fully appreciate the complex emotive realities of transitional political landscapes Drawing on interviews with what the author terms memory curators coupled with a robust analysis of secondary literature from a range of transitional cases the book analyses how the bodies of the dead the injured and the traumatised are written into or written out of transitional justice The author argues that scholars cannot appreciate the dynamism of transitional memory space unless they first engage with the often silenced or marginalised voices whose memories remain trapped behind the antagonistic politics of fear and division Ultimately challenging the imperative of national reconciliation the author argues for a politics of public memory that incubates at multiple nodes of social production and can facilitate a vibrant democratic debate over the ways in which a traumatic past can or should be remembered
