Padayachee,2021-06-29 Apartheid South Africa was often thought to run in the interests of the business elite Yet 27 years after apartheid those business interests remain largely entrenched Why Did the South African business community play a role in engineering this outcome perhaps recognising the apartheid era was over and jumping ship in time Conversely the mission of the ANC was widely perceived to be to shift wealth and power into the hands of the whole community Yet despite black empowerment measures corporate ownership remains largely in white hands and certainly in the hands of an elite few even though no longer restricted to whites This picture is replicated across the global south where corporate ownership tends to be concentrated in the hands of an elite rather than being more democratically spread Why have alternative corporate forms not been pursued more vigorously with ownership in the hands of customers employees and local communities In the case of South Africa where the majority of customers and employees are black this could have delivered on the ANC s mission to replace the apartheid era with a democratic one in terms of wealth incomes and power as well as in terms of voting and civic rights This edited volume explores all these questions and looks at ways to align corporate forms with economic and social goals The chapters in this book were originally published as special issues of International Review of Applied Economics      Global Space Governance: An International Study Ram S. Jakhu,Joseph N. Pelton,2017-09-12

This book is based on the findings conclusions and recommendations of the Global Space Governance study commissioned by the 2014 Montreal Declaration that called upon civil society academics governments the private sector and other stakeholders to undertake an international interdisciplinary study The study took three years to complete It examines the drivers of space regulations and standards key regulatory problems and especially addresses possible improvements in global space governance The world s leading experts led the drafting of chapters with input from academics and knowledgeable professionals in the public and private sectors intergovernmental organizations and nongovernmental organizations from all the regions of the world with over 80 total participants This book and areas identified for priority action are to be presented to the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space and it is hoped will be considered directly or indirectly at the UNISPACE 50 event in Vienna Austria in 2018 The report a collective work of all the contributors includes objective analysis and frank statements expressed without pressure of political national and occupational concerns or interest It is peer reviewed and carefully edited to ensure its accuracy preciseness and readability It is expected that the study and derivative recommendations will form the basis for deliberations and decisions at international conferences and meetings around the world on the theme of global space governance This will hopefully include future discussion at the UN Committee on the Peaceful Uses of Outer Space      ICT Education Janet Liebenberg,Stefan Gruner,2017-11-17 This book constitutes the African Perspectives on the Fourth Industrial Revolution Zamanzima Mazibuko-Makena,Erika Kraemer-Mbula.,2021-04-09 Leap 4 0 African Perspectives on the Fourth Industrial Revolution seeks to identify the challenges and opportunities the 4IR presents to South Africa and the rest of the African continent especially to workers and marginalised sectors of society Authors examine the prerequisites for the successful introduction of the 4IR including infrastructure skilled personnel and appropriate regulation They underline the importance of inclusive innovation with a deliberate objective to create net new jobs and reduce inequality The 4IR is well established in many parts of the world with technological advances driving profound social and economic change However for many developing countries particularly countries in Africa the 4IR may not offer the anticipated leap forward There is a danger that the continent may find itself dictated to by experiences that are not in tune with its social contexts Agribusiness competitiveness:

Applying analytics, typology, and measurements to Africa Shishodia, Mahika, Babu, Suresh Chandra, 2017-07-02

Agribusiness has a major role to play in the transformation of the agricultural sector in Africa. With the demand for high value food products increasing around the world, the production and export of these goods represents an opportunity to achieve increases in income and employment. To capture the benefits of this trend and capitalize on this opportunity for long term agricultural growth, agribusiness in Africa must become more competitive. In addition to improving competitiveness, increasing agricultural productivity and food security are also major challenges in African agricultural development. In this paper, we compare the agribusiness competitiveness of African countries and develop typologies connected with their food security and agricultural productivity status. The typologies reveal various stylized facts on the competitiveness of agribusiness to help nations prioritize issues for agricultural development and growth. We develop the measures of agribusiness competitiveness and apply them to African countries. Additionally, we present policy implications and lessons for increasing the competitiveness of agribusiness in African countries.

Phage Therapy: Past, Present and Future Stephen T. Abedon, Pilar García, Peter Mullany, Rustam Aminov, 2017-09-05. Historically, the first observation of a transmissible lytic agent that is specifically active against a bacterium, Bacillus anthracis, was by a Russian microbiologist, Nikolay Gamaleya, in 1898. At that time, however, it was too early to make a connection to another discovery made by Dmitri Ivanovsky in 1892 and Martinus Beijerinck in 1898 on a non-bacterial pathogen infecting tobacco plants. Thus, the viral world was discovered in two of the three domains of life, and our current understanding is that viruses represent the most abundant biological entities on the planet. The potential of bacteriophages for infection treatment has been recognized after the discoveries by Frederick Twort and Felix d'Hérelle in 1915 and 1917. Subsequent phage therapy developments, however, have been overshadowed by the remarkable success of antibiotics in infection control and treatment, and phage therapy research and development persisted mostly in the former Soviet Union countries, Russia and Georgia, as well as in France and Poland. The dramatic rise of antibiotic resistance, and especially of multi-drug resistance among human and animal bacterial pathogens, however, challenged the position of antibiotics as a single most important pillar for infection control and treatment. Thus, there is a renewed interest in phage therapy as a possible additive alternative therapy, especially for the infections that resist routine antibiotic treatment. The basis for the revival of phage therapy is affected by a number of issues that need to be resolved before it can enter the arena which is traditionally reserved for antibiotics. Probably, the most important is the regulatory issue: How should phage therapy be regulated? Similarly to drugs, then, the co-evolving nature of phage-bacterial host relationship will be a major hurdle for the production of consistent phage formulae. Or should we resort to the phage products such as lysins and the corresponding engineered versions in order to have accurate and consistent delivery doses? We still have very limited knowledge about the pharmacodynamics of phage therapy. More data obtained in animal models are necessary to evaluate the phage therapy efficiency compared for example to antibiotics Another aspect is the safety of phage therapy How do phages interact with the immune system and to what costs or benefits What are the risks in the course of phage therapy of transduction of undesirable properties such as virulence or antibiotic resistance genes How frequent is the development of bacterial host resistance during phage therapy Understanding these and many other aspects of phage therapy basic and applied is the main subject of this Topic

adapted practice of drawing for improved observation in medical education and surgical planning and practice We begin this book with a chapter reviewing the history of confusion around visualisation observation and theory outlining the implications for medical imaging The authors consider the shifting influence of various schools of philosophy and the changing agency of technology over time We then follow with chapters on the practical application of visualisation and observation including emerging imaging techniques in anatomy for teaching research and clinical practice innovation in the mapping of orthopaedic fractures for optimal orthopaedic surgical guidance placental morphology and morphometry as a prerequisite for future pathological investigations visualising the dural venous sinuses using volume tracing Two chapters explore the use and benefit of drawing in medical education and surgical planning It is worth noting that experienced surgeons and artists employ a common set of techniques as part of their work which involves both close observation and the development of fine motor skills and sensitive tool use An in depth look at police identikit construction from memory by eyewitnesses to crimes outlines how an individual s memory of a suspect s facial features are rendered visible as a composite image This book offers anatomy educators and clinicians an overview of the history and philosophy of medical observation and imaging as well as an overview of contemporary imaging technologies for anatomy education and clinical practice In addition we offer anatomy educators and clinicians a detailed overview of drawing practices for the improvement of anatomical observation and surgical planning Forensic psychologists and law enforcement personnel will not only benefit from a chapter dedicated to the construction of facial composites but also from chapters on drawing and observation

Social Justice and Education in the 21st Century Willie Pearson Jr.,Vijay Reddy,2021-04-10 The world is not an equal place There are high and low income countries and high and low income households For each group there are differential educational opportunities leading to differential educational outcomes and differential labor market opportunities This pattern often reproduces the privileges and inequalities of groups in a society This book explores this differentiation in education from a social justice lens Comparing the United States and South Africa this book analyzes each country s developmental thinking on education from human capital and human rights approaches in both primary and higher education The enclosed contributions draw from different disciplines including legal studies sociology psychology computer science and public policy

Borders, Legal Spaces and Territories in Contemporary International Law Tommaso Natoli,Alice Riccardi,2019-09-12 This book examines the challenges posed to contemporary international law by the shifting role of the border which has recently re emerged as a central issue in international relations It posits that borders do not merely correspond to States boundaries indeed while remaining a fundamental tool for asserting States power they are in fact a collection of constantly changing spatial limits Consequently the book approaches borders as context specific limits and revisits notions traditionally linked to them jurisdiction sovereignty responsibility individual rights while also adopting the innovative approach of viewing borders as phenomena of both closedness and openness Accordingly the first part of the book addresses what happens within borders investigating the root causes of the emergence of spatial limits and re assessing apparent extra territorial assertions of State power In turn the second part not only explores typical borderless spaces but also more generally considers the exercise of States and international organisations powers and prerogatives across or beyond borders

Transformative Innovation for Sustainable Human Settlements Andrew Emmanuel Okem, Sithembiso Lindelihle Myeni, Tshepang Mosiea, 2024-11-18

This book uses the transformative innovation policy TIP as a lens to show how innovative processes practices and systems could address critical challenges and facilitate the delivery of sustainable human settlements in South Africa The TIP approach shows that addressing societal problems is not a function of a technical solution within a government department but one that requires partnership with multiple stakeholders The book argues that it is essential to understand and embrace innovation policy that is transformative and responds to the social and environmental needs at local provincial and national levels It demonstrates that innovation policy should focus on transforming the socio technical systems that demand embracing notions such as experimental delivery and learning directionality and inclusivity Chapters explore the ability of the state to transform its organisational processes and capacity to improve and align its planning implementation monitoring and evaluation systems to high levels of efficiency and sustainability targets Bringing together various theoretical and empirical perspectives on innovation in the context of sustainable human settlement this book will be of interest to scholars and students in the fields of Housing Human Settlements Architecture Public Policy Development Studies Civil Engineering Political Science and Public Administration
