2014 November Motor N1 Question Paper:

Knowledge Engineering and Knowledge Management Krzysztof Janowicz, Stefan Schlobach, Patrick Lambrix, Eero Hyvönen, 2014-11-01 This book constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 19th International Conference on Knowledge Engineering and Knowledge Management EKAW 2014 held in Linköping, Sweden, in November 2014. The 24 full papers and 21 short papers presented were carefully reviewed and selected from 138 submissions. The papers cover all aspects of eliciting, acquiring, modeling and managing knowledge, the construction of knowledge intensive systems and services for the Semantic Web, knowledge management, e-business, natural language processing, intelligent information integration, personal digital assistance systems and a variety of other related topics. Multisensory and sensorimotor interactions in speech perception Kaisa Tiippana, Jean-Luc Schwartz, Riikka Möttönen, 2015-06-26 Speech is multisensory since it is perceived through several senses. Audition is the most important one as speech is mostly heard. The role of vision has long been acknowledged since many articulatory gestures can be seen on the talker's face. Sometimes speech can even be felt by touching the face. The best known multisensory illusion is the McGurk effect where incongruent visual articulation changes the auditory percept. The interest in the McGurk effect arises from a major general question in multisensory research: How is information from different senses combined? Despite decades of research, a conclusive explanation for the illusion remains elusive. This is a good demonstration of the challenges in the study of multisensory integration. Speech is special in many ways. It is the main means of human communication and a manifestation of a unique language system. It is a signal with which all humans have a lot of experience. We are exposed to it from birth and learn it through development in face-to-face contact with others. It is a signal that we can both perceive and produce. The role of the motor system in speech perception has been debated for a long time. Despite very active current research, it is still unclear to which extent and in which role the motor system is involved in speech perception. Recent evidence shows that brain areas involved in speech production are activated during listening to speech and watching a talker's articulatory gestures. Speaking involves coordination of articulatory movements and monitoring their auditory and somatosensory consequences. How do auditory, visual, somatosensory and motor brain areas interact during speech perception? How do these sensorimotor interactions contribute to speech perception? It is surprising that despite a vast amount of research, the secrets of speech perception have not yet been solved. The multisensory and sensorimotor approaches provide new opportunities in solving them. Contributions to the research topic are encouraged for a wide spectrum of research on speech perception in multisensory and sensorimotor contexts, including novel experimental findings ranging from psychophysics to brain imaging theories and models, reviews and opinions. Transport and Children's Wellbeing Owen Waygood, Margareta Friman, Lars Olsson, Raktim Mitra, 2019-10-18 Transportation and Children's Wellbeing applies an ecological approach examining the social, psychological and physical impacts transport has on children at the individual and community level. Drawing on the latest multidisciplinary research in transport behavior policy.

the built environment and sustainability the book explains the pathways and mechanisms by which transport affects the different domains of children s travel Further the book identifies the influences of transportation with respect to several domains of well being highlighting the influences of residential location on travel by different modes and its impact on the long term choices families make The book concludes with proposed evidence based solutions using real world examples that support positive influences on well being and eliminate or reduce negative solutions
