Misinformation and Mass Audiences Brian G. Southwell,Emily A. Thorson,Laura Sheble,2018-01-24 Lies and inaccurate information are as old as humanity but never before have they been so easy to spread Each moment of every day the Internet and broadcast media purvey misinformation either deliberately or accidentally to a mass audience on subjects ranging from politics to consumer goods to science and medicine among many others Because misinformation now has the potential to affect behavior on a massive scale it is urgently important to understand how it works and what can be done to mitigate its harmful effects Misinformation and Mass Audiences brings together evidence and ideas from communication research public health psychology political science environmental studies and information science to investigate what constitutes misinformation how it spreads and how best to counter it The expert contributors cover such topics as whether and to what extent audiences consciously notice misinformation the possibilities for audience deception the ethics of satire in journalism and public affairs programming the diffusion of rumors the role of Internet search behavior and the evolving efforts to counteract misinformation such as fact checking programs The first comprehensive social science volume exploring the prevalence and consequences of and remedies for misinformation as a mass communication phenomenon Misinformation and Mass Audiences will be a crucial resource for students and faculty researching misinformation policymakers grappling with questions of regulation and prevention and anyone concerned about this troubling yet perhaps unavoidable dimension of current media systems Systems Ultra Georgina Voss,2024-01-23

Systems Ultra explores how we experience complex systems the mesh of things people and ideas interacting to produce their own patterns and behaviours What does it mean when a car which runs on code drives dangerously What does massmarket graphics software tell us about the workplace politics of architects And in these human made systems which phenomena are designed and which are emergent In a world of networked technologies global supply chains and supranational regulations there are growing calls for a new kind of literacy around systems and their ramifications At the same time we are often told these systems are impossible to fully comprehend and are far beyond our control Drawing on field research and artistic practice around the industrial settings of ports air traffic control architectural software payment platforms in adult entertainment and car crash testing Georgina Voss argues that complex systems can be approached as sites of revelation around scale time materiality deviance and breakages With humour and guile she tells the story of what systems have come to mean how they have been sold to us and the real world consequences of the power that flows through them Systems Ultra goes beyond narratives of technological exceptionalism to explore how we experience the complex systems which influence our lives how to understand them more clearly and perhaps how to change them
