Students will find this book invaluable for coursework and self study. Introduction to Modern Economic Growth Daron Acemoglu, 2008-12-15 From Nobel Prize winning economist Daron

Acemoglu, an incisive introduction to economic growth. Introduction to Modern Economic Growth is a groundbreaking text from one of today's leading economists. Daron Acemoglu gives graduate students not only the tools to analyze growth and related macroeconomic problems but also the broad perspective needed to apply those tools to the big picture questions of growth and divergence. And he introduces the economic and mathematical foundations of modern growth theory and macroeconomics in a rigorous but easy to follow manner. After covering the necessary background on dynamic general equilibrium and dynamic optimization, the book presents the basic workhorse models of growth and takes students to the frontier areas of growth theory, including models of human capital, endogenous technological change, technology transfer, international trade, economic development, and political economy. The book integrates these theories with data and shows how theoretical approaches can lead to better perspectives on the fundamental causes of economic growth and the wealth of nations. Innovative and authoritative, this book is likely to shape how economic growth is taught and learned for years to come. Introduces all the foundations for understanding economic growth and dynamic macroeconomic analysis. Focuses on the big picture questions of economic growth. Provides mathematical foundations. Presents dynamic general equilibrium. Covers models such as basic Solow neoclassical growth and overlapping generations, as well as models of endogenous technology and international linkages. Addresses frontier research areas such as international linkages, international trade, political economy, and economic development and structural change. An accompanying Student Solutions Manual containing the answers to selected exercises is available. 978 0 691 14163 3 24 95. See <https://press.princeton.edu/titles/8970.html>. For Professors only. Remarkable Economic Growth John Knight, Sai Ding, 2012-04-12 China's economy has been growing at ten per cent per annum for the last three decades. This book considers one of the biggest questions facing contemporary economists: why and how is the Chinese economy growing so fast? An Economic History of the United States Mark V. Siegler, 2017-09-02 This pioneering textbook takes a thematic approach to the subject, resulting in a comprehensive understanding of historic economic issues in the United States. Siegler takes a thematic approach and provides both the theoretical foundations and historical background needed to gain an in-depth understanding of the subject. Every chapter examines a specific topic, and the chapters are linked to each other to provide an overall view. The chronological approach is represented with a useful timeline as an appendix to show where the specific topics fit in the chronology Chapter topics include long run causes of economic growth economic history of income and wealth inequality slavery segregation and discrimination immigration and immigration policies and an economic history of recessions and depressions This book is ideally suited as a primary text for undergraduate courses in US economic history as well as suitable courses on history degree programmes Journal of Public Finance and Public Choice n. 1-3/2013 AA. Petrakis,2014-02-17 It is a wide spread belief that the cultural background inhered in a society affects the requirements of economic development This relationship requires theoretical and empirical justification The present book provides this together with an analysis of the development of cultural background itself Cultural background is embodied in political institutions in transactions knowledge incentives in social capital even in the tangibles of the economy Thus economic development is shaped and the rate of growth is affected Conversely economic development affects cultural background When this interaction takes place at a non developmental cultural background level which is associated with low growth rates then a growth trap is formed Within such a growth trap economic policy public and monetary is relatively deactivated and the conditions influencing the change in cultural background and its timing are of primary importance Distributional Aspects of Energy and Climate Policies Mark A. Cohen,Don Fullerton,Robert H. Topel,2013-05-31 Governments around the globe have begun to implement various actions to limit carbon emissions and so combat climate change This book brings together some of the leading scholars in environmental and climate economics to examine the distributional consequences of policies that are designed to reduce these carbon emissions Whether through a carbon tax cap and trade system or other mechanisms most proposals to reduce carbon emissions include some kind of carbon pricing system shifting the costs of emissions onto polluters and providing an incentive to find the least costly methods of abatement This standard efficiency justification for pricing carbon also has important distributional consequences a problem that is often ignored by economists while being a major focus of attention in the political arena. Leading scholars in environmental and climate economics take up these issues to examine such questions as: Will the costs fall on current or future generations? Will they fall on the rich, poor, middle class, or on everyone proportionally? Which countries will benefit and which will suffer? Students and scholars interested in climate change along with policy makers will find this lively volume an invaluable addition to the quest for information on this globally important issue.

The Political Economy of Everyday Life in Africa Wale Adebani, 2017. Multi disciplinary examination of the role of ordinary African people as agents in the generation and distribution of well being in modern Africa. What are the fundamental issues, processes, agency and dynamics that shape the political economy of life in modern Africa? In this book the contributors, experts in anthropology, history, political science, economics, conflict and peace studies, philosophy and language, examine the opportunities and constraints placed on living livelihoods and sustainable life on the continent. Reflecting on why and how the political economy of life approach is essential for understanding the social process in modern Africa, they engage with the intellectual oeuvre of the influential Africanist economic anthropologist Jane Guyer who provides an Afterword. The contributors analyse the political economy of everyday life as it relates to money and currency, migrant labour forces and informal and formal economies, dispossession of land, debt and indebtedness, socio economic marginality and the entrenchment of colonial and apartheid pasts. Wale Adebani is the Rhodes Professor of Race Relations at the University of Oxford. He is author of Nation as Grand Narrative. The Nigerian Press and the Politics of Meaning. University of Rochester Press.

Forces of Reproduction Stefania Barca, 2020-11-26. The concept of Anthropocene has been incorporated within a hegemonic narrative that represents Man as the dominant geological force of our epoch, emphasizing the destruction and salvation power of industrial technologies. This Element develops a counter hegemonic narrative based on the perspective of earthcare labour or the forces of reproduction. It brings to the fore the historical agency of reproductive and subsistence workers as those subjects that through both daily practices and organized political action take care of the biophysical conditions for human reproduction, thus keeping the world alive. Adopting a narrative justice approach and placing feminist political ecology right at the core of its critique of the Anthropocene storyline, this Element offers a novel and timely contribution to the environmental humanities.

Institutions and Economic Growth in Asia Flora Huang, Horace Yeung, 2018-03-20. This book explores the role of institutions in economic growth, looking in particular at specific Asian countries and at particular cities within those countries. It considers a wide range of factors besides institutions, including the law, cultural factors and overall government arrangements. The differences between the countries studied are highlighted and the impact of these differences assessed: the impact of English common law on arrangements in Hong Kong, Singapore and Malaysia; sharia law in Malaysia; the differing lengths of time of colonial rule; the extent to which Chinese family businesses control an economy. Also studied are the degree to which the law is effectively applied and a range of other social, economic and cultural factors. The book's conclusions as to which factors have the greatest impact will be of considerable interest to economists of Asia and those interested in economic growth more widely
