

Short Answer Questions

Question 1

Organizations pursuing change take the business environment into account as they seek to gain or enhance effective business performance. But is being aware of, reacting to, and responding to the environment necessary?

- a. It is because organizations are important stakeholders. Owners or other stakeholders, and not other stakeholders, are the business. It is the responsibility of management to understand the needs of all stakeholders and to develop strategies for meeting their needs. This is the only way to ensure the long-term success of the organization.
- b. It is because the environment is a business. There are many ways to improve the performance of an organization, and this is the only way to ensure the long-term success of the organization.
- c. The business environment is made up of stakeholders, and owners, managers, and other stakeholders are the business. It is the responsibility of management to understand the needs of all stakeholders and to develop strategies for meeting their needs. This is the only way to ensure the long-term success of the organization.
