Question	Answer
1. What is the purpose of the study?	The purpose of the study is to investigate the effect of the new curriculum on the learning outcomes of the students in the field of biology.
2. What is the research design?	The research design is a quasi-experimental design, which involves comparing the learning outcomes of two groups of students, one taught using the old curriculum and the other taught using the new curriculum.
3. What are the independent and dependent variables?	The independent variable is the curriculum (old vs. new). The dependent variable is the learning outcome, measured by the scores on the biology exam.
4. What is the sample size and selection method?	The sample size is 60 students, selected from two classes of 30 students each. The selection method is random sampling.
5. What are the data collection methods?	The data collection method is a biology exam, which was administered to both groups of students.
6. What are the results of the study?	The results of the study show that the students taught using the new curriculum achieved significantly higher scores on the biology exam than the students taught using the old curriculum.
7. What are the conclusions and recommendations?	The conclusion of the study is that the new curriculum has a positive effect on the learning outcomes of the students in the field of biology. The recommendation is that the new curriculum should be implemented in all schools.
