

USING A MANNEQUIN

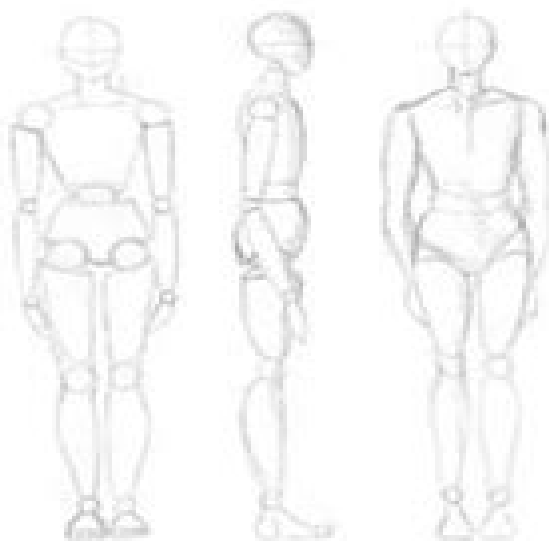

A mannequin (also called a model or dummy) for figure or dress design is an often articulated doll used for pattern making, dressmaking, costume design and fashion especially in display or in the classroom.

The artist/mannequin already handles some of the body's basic shapes, rounded, geometric shapes. The mannequin will have some degree of volume but it can be given your mannequin in different poses and poses drawing it. If you are taking a drawing lesson, it can be helpful to use a mannequin to practice specific poses that you find particularly difficult.

Of course, mannequins can become quite rigid, so they are not a substitute for practice on humans. One by one of the top and shoulder up of the figure can illustrate a full body or upper body pose.

PRACTICE DRAWING SHAPES

Commonly shapes of all kinds can be used to construct almost any complex object you want to draw. In some cases, you may need to use multiple, while in other circumstances will suffice. It is important to be creative when you try.

Building a drawing that is composed of geometric shapes will require that you start from a point and work together. Working back and forth between a point and a line is a good practice. However, when you have found a point to draw on, you may want to draw a line slightly away from the point. Drawing the point, you are actually giving the whole shape up to the point, which is why it is important to be creative when you try to draw a point.

DRAWING FEET

Using shapes to help you construct a drawing that is useful in practicing them from looking at.

Ensure you have the foot with a correct line.

DRAWING A HEAD STARTS WITH A CIRCLE, AN oval, AND A CROSS

They need to be positioned depending on where the point is located. There is more to this in the section on head and head.

- The circle represents the skull when the head is turned.
- The oval is the front of the face and jaw.
- The cross is the middle of the face, and the point is the nose when the head is turned.
- Another oval can be added to show the side of the head when the head is turned.
